The city of Fulda on the banks of the Fulda River is the upper centre of the Eastern Hesse region and the ninth largest city of Hesse. It is the administrative seat of the Fulda rural district and at the same time one of seven Hessian cities with a special status. Fulda is the largest city of the Eastern Hesse region and its political and cultural centre. Fulda was also the seat of the Fulda monastery and is a university city, city of baroque, episcopal city with the bishop's seat of the Fulda bishopric. The landmark of the city is its cathedral St. Salvator.
