Blois is situated on the banks of the Loire River in the centre of France, and it is the capital of the French department Loir-et-Cher. It has been Weimar's twin town since 18th February 1995. In both 1996 and in 2001, an organised group of Weimar citizens each went to Blois. In June 2005, a delegation from Weimar travelled to Blois to celebrate the tenth town twinning anniversary.
